Ms. Aruzhan Mominbayeva, 26, Kazakhstan

Aruzhan Mominbayeva is a sustainable development professional and youth advocate from Kazakhstan. Working in climate and clean energy since 2017, she manages renewable energy projects and founded a ClimateTech startup supporting Central Asia's green transition. She is an MBA candidate and Class President at Nazarbayev University. Through the UNODC YouthLED Board, Aruzhan contributed to research, youth consultations and the report "Stolen Futures: How Corruption Hurts Young People." Her human rights and youth empowerment work spans research, volunteering and advocacy. She also serves on the EU Youth Sounding Board in Kazakhstan and is a Women@Dior & UNESCO mentee. She has participated in COP, RCOY 2026 and IFC She Wins Climate, and received the CAREC Gender & Climate Award 2024. She advocates for integrity, human rights and meaningful youth participation, believing that transparent and accountable institutions are essential to building fairer, greener and more inclusive societies.
