Mr. Bernsy Vanes Saint-Jacques, 23, Haiti

Bernsy Vanes Saint-Jacques is an Haitian social entrepreneur and economist, founder of The Peace Academy, a youth-led institution training young Haitians in conflict analysis, dialogue and civic leadership, and of EliteTeam, which focused on entrepreneurship and economic participation. He is completing a degree in Economics with a thesis on trade imbalances and institutional fragility in Haiti–Dominican Republic relations. He serves on the OHCHR Youth4Rights Advisory Group and took part in the Finland–South Africa YMMP. His interest in integrity comes from what he sees daily: in Haiti, corruption is not a side issue but the structure that lets armed groups finance themselves and pushes young people out of school, work and civic life. He believes young people who grow up thinking rules don't apply equally will not defend institutions, and that rebuilding that trust has to start with them.
