Ms. Eve Ang Yee Leng, 19, Singapore

Eve Ang Yee Leng is a 19-year-old Singaporean youth leader working across global health, technology ethics and governance. Her experience as a young carer shaped her belief in fairness, accountability and institutions that serve people. That belief grew into a deeper interest in how integrity and public trust are built across health systems, institutions and societies. Eve has led global collaborations in responsible health-climate innovation and mobilised youth across 45 countries to co-create solutions for underserved communities. Across her work, she has built cross-cultural understanding and brought diverse perspectives together to advance shared goals. A speaker at WTO, Microsoft, and QS, she holds advisory and council roles at two global youth nonprofits. Through the UNODC YouthLED Integrity Advisory Board, Eve hopes to amplify Singaporean and Southeast Asian perspectives, challenging conventional thinking to empower more youth to build societies rooted in integrity.
