Sofia is a passionate Law graduate and civil society advocate dedicated to youth engagement, anti-corruption, and the rule of law. She holds a Master's Degree in Law from the University of Trento, with a focus on Comparative Law, alongside international study at Utrecht University, specialising in organised crime. Her legal expertise is further grounded in judicial traineeships at various Courts of Law and the European Public Prosecutor's Office. Committed to making anti-corruption frameworks accessible and actionable for young people, Sofia believes equal access to knowledge is crucial to building a diverse, shared culture of integrity. She aims to bridge local civil society insights with global discussions, empowering youth as active shapers of change.
