

Ms. Tsenguunbileg Naranpurev, 21, Mongolia

Naranpurev Tsenguunbileg (Tessie) is an undergraduate student of international law and political science at Nagoya University's G30 program in Japan. She completed her secondary education in two countries - Mongolia (Ulaanbaatar) and the United States (Indiana) making her a tri-linguistic, multicultural young individual. Her interest in international relations and the law has grown since then. Tsenguunbileg has participated in many global youth programs, such as FLEX (Future Leadership Exchange Program), and CoL-YF (Global Youth Forum for Culture of Lawfulness) in Japan and the United States. As she previously worked on mostly youth-related development programs in the context of language, culture, and education, it is her first time focusing on anti-corruption initiatives with the UNODC networks. Coming from a multi-cultural background, Tsenguunbileg is keen to promote integrity and accountability among youths, especially in the regions of Central Asia and South-East Asia.
